Classes that were in Film rill now be held in the uther King Jr. Unive

n the mean time

hone lines will be re-

n Seventh Street.

ports photo editor . . .

- should not ting the troops. heir duty to the their country

one's coun-

 $uid L_{L}$

Darrunder 8 Orne

Tuesday, February 12 A Faculty mem

7:00 p.m.

Booth 3000

ormer Clinical Servic Always on Deadline: How the Associated Press Covers the World

A national editor, a Chicago reporter, and a bureau chief for the Associated Press in New York City and Chicago describe what it's like to work for the world's largest news organization.

Speakers: Martha Irvine, John M. Ryan, and Chris Sundheim

anniversally.

Chris Sundheim is a national editor for the Associated Press, helping to oversee the wire service's U.S. news report from its world headquarters in New York City. He is responsible for surveying the top stories in the United States each day and working with reporters across the country. Sundheim has coordinated coverage of historic events, such as Hurricane Katrina, the 2006 midterm elections, and the return of the space shuttle program after the Columbia disaster. He joined the AP in 2000 as a reporter in the Indianapolis bureau. In 2002 he became a desk supervisor, and in 2004 he transferred to the national desk. Chris grew up in Charleston, Illinois, and has degrees in journalism and history from Eastern Illinois University. While at Eastern, he worked for four years at The Daily Eastern News before graduating in 1995. Prior to his time at the AP, Chris was a reporter for the Champaign News-Gazette.

Special Guest: George Garties, AP bureau chief for Illinois

Martha Irvine is a Chicago-based national writer for the Associated Press. Since 2001, she has developed a beat that focuses on issues relevant to young adults and teens - from trends to social issues. Irvine began her journalism career in 1987, working at newspapers and magazines in Australia, New Zealand, Michigan, and Minnesota. In 1995 she joined the AP bureau in Portland, Oregon. Irvine received a 2001 Studs Terkel Award for her coverage of social issues in Chicago. In 2004, the American Association of Sunday and Feature Edithe country. That same year she was a finalist for the National Lesbian and Mattors recognized her profile of a teen who was born with HIV. ats organizations, She also won a 2007 FIGHT Mg.
en's Club of New York for a feature about a dying mounci s quest to explain her inevitable demise to her young children.

that were in Blair Ha be held in the Marti Jr. University Union members' offices an ne relocated to ti Imical Services building

Stephen Haas

Aaron Seidlitz

asphotography.com

sometimes d

Presiden John Inyart

Veterans D. celebrated for 1 ent guises.

The actual day anniversary of the

Initially, the day

War I.

blentz.

one's country noble thing." John M. Ryan is director of Student Publications and a professor of journalism at Eastern Illinios University. In addition to teaching opinion writing, media management, and thy the reporting on the arts, as well as other writing and reporting courses, he oversees The Daily Eastern News, the Warbler, Minority Today, and the Vehicle. Before coming to Eastern, John was a staff writer for the Champaign News-Gazette and the State Journal-Register in Springfield, Illinois.