What is Your Why?

September 20

11-2pm | RSVP: 9/12

EIU Ninth St. Hall (2201 9th St., Charleston, IL. 61920)

Have you lost your motivation and your passion for what you do? Maybe you used to know, and you have had a significant change or life event that has you revisiting your goals. This training encourages you to look inside yourself to find out what drives you. We will practice self-reflection, take a personality test, and engage in interactive activities to help you find your true calling. This training aims to introduce childcare workers to the concept of reflective practice as well as engage you in a discussion about your professional passions and meaningfulness of your work. By discovering your "why" and sharing it with colleagues, stronger relationships and compassion for one another can be built. Knowing where we come from helps us to understand where we are going. This training offers specific discussion questions and topics to facilitate conversation around personal values and perspectives as a valuable member of a team and as a leader in your childcare center, family childcare center, classroom, or home. With new understandings of one another and ourselves, you will engage in goal setting around building a personal reflective practice that will encourage purposeful interactions in your everyday work and life.
